"We're excited to welcome our neighbors in these towns and cities into their fresh, new Food Lion," said Food Lion President Meg Ham. All these changes were made with our neighbors in mind so they can nourish their families affordably and make life a little easier."

"Our associates care deeply about nourishing their neighbors, and far too many of our neighbors are forced to make difficult choices between things like gas and groceries or dinner and rent," Ham added. "Through Food Lion Feeds, we're committed to eliminating those difficult choices many in our communities face. We're proud to work with dedicated community partners every day that share our commitment to support our food-insecure neighbors in the towns and cities we serve."

In addition to the significant donations to the five food bank partners serving these communities, each of these 87 newly remodeled stores is making a one-time donation of $500 to a feeding agency nearby. They will also receive regular food donations through Food Lion's pioneering food rescue program, in which every Food Lion store donates food safe for human consumption to a local feeding agency before the food spoils. This is in addition to ongoing support these local organizations have received from Food Lion Feeds through other product, monetary, equipment and volunteer
